WE NOMINATE

John Rainer Bodo, one of the Princeton Community's most articulate and broad-gauged leaders, who this week submitted his resignation, effective next August 31st, as minister of the historic First Presbyterian Church of Princeton. The 14th distinguished clergyman to serve the church, which was organized even before ground was broken for Nassau Hall, the 38-year old Bodo will be relinquishing his post next summer to accept appointment as Professor of Practical Theology in the San Francisco Theological Seminary, a 300-student Presbyterian institution at San Anselmo, Calif.

In his 19th year as a minister, and in his eighth year of service to the First Church, Bodo is well qualified to accept the challenge of working on the church's "crucial frontier"—where ministers must be taught "to apply the basic insights of the academic disciplines to the all-important task of raising up churches of the people." He first planned to enter university or seminary teaching some 12-13 years ago and was a Teaching Fellow in Ecumenics at Princeton Seminary when in 1951 he was (in his own words) "providentially sidetracked" by the First Church, following the death of Frank S. Niles.

Bodo's Princeton ministry has been, and will continue to be, an outstanding and stimulating one. In much the way a minister might use Biblical texts for his weekly sermons, Bodo's leadership and conception of the church are rooted in The Gospel According to John (11:16): "For God so loved the world." As a traditionally formal congregation, now numbering some 1,350 members, has reached out more and more into community life, its efforts and program have been shaped by Bodo's insistence that the church stands for "justice and compassion" for all, and as the "chosen instrument to redeem the world."

Just three years ago the Hungarian-born Bodo was honored (together with scientist Seymour M. Bogdonoff and Borough Mayor Raymond F. Male) by the Junior Chamber of Commerce as one of Princeton's first "Young Men of the Year" and was appropriately cited "for doing something about the Brotherhood of Man." During his pastorate, both in and beyond church circles, he has struggled for better understanding between different races and creeds, has helped widen the horizons of the Princeton Pastors' Association and has made possible the wider use of church facilities by non-church groups.

A naturalized American citizen since 1947, six years after he and his family reached the United States, Bodo has held both denominational and interdenominational offices. He is currently a member of the Presbyterian General Assembly Committee concerned with "a non-segregated church in a non-segregated society" and is a former member of the Board of Managers of the Radio-Television Department of the Presbyterian Church. Indicative of his capacity for the profession of scholarship was his excellent and, readable, doctoral dissertation, written at Princeton Seminary and subsequently published by the Princeton University Press under the title, "The Protestant Clergy and Public Issues: 1812-1848."

For constantly emphasizing that individual Christians "may neither ignore nor be neutral toward the forces of evil in the world"; for his abiding concern for making Princeton a better place in which to live; for solid, conscientious achievement; he is our nominee for

POLITICAL PICTURE

Few Hats in the Ring. A week from this Thursday, at 4 p. m., the deadline will fall for filing petitions for the April primary elections. In the next seven days, both parties in Princeton Borough and Township will be hard at work to complete their slate. In line with the past decade's trend, primary contests are likely to be unusually unlikely.

With an "off year" in prospect (no office higher than places in the N. J. Legislature are at stake), the Republicans are at stake, and the Democrats will hold the spotlight — the first time since Joseph S. Hoff held office in the early 'thirties. The Democrats are expected to lead the ticket with an incumbent, while the Republicans, led by Raymond F. Male, will seek another two-year term — in contrast to the only other Democratic mayor since the war, the late James H. Hoff, Mayor C. Morgan, Jr., who served in 1936 and '47 but did not stand for reelection.

For that same reason, the Republicans must dig deeper into their ranks than they have in years, since one veteran (six-time mayor Charles R. Erdman, Jr. has his hands full as Republican State Chairman) and former Councilman (President) B. Johnson this week took himself out of the picture with an emphatic "No!". Likewise, not only unavailable for a possible upward move, but also unlikely to run again at all is Maurice A. Mather, GOP councilman who resigned last week and left the Republicans with another vacancy to fill.

Councilman Alfred E. Sorenson, who is completing the second of two non-consecutive terms, had no comment this week but is expected to be one of his party's candidates. Quite the opposite, Male, a Democrat, had advanced no candidates as the filing week began but with a chance to achieve what may well be the first 60 representation in the city, he has known in the municipality, they were sure to take dead aim on maintaining voter confidence.

STEPPING DOWN: I. Russell
Riker, Borough Engineer for a quarter century, this week announced plans to retire. (Story on page 3.)

Township Has Three Races. The show is on the other foot where the Republicans have a 41 majority and hope to maintain it by retaining the two committee seats which will be on the ballot. Ability to bring in two promising candidates will be the challenge to the underdog Democratic party, which has been successful at the polls twice in the past five years but nonetheless has found it a major problem to rebut the Republican tide that normally gives every GOP candidate a solid majority.

The two-term terms expire are James C. Campbell, Jr. and John S. Mount. While neither had yet announced his candidacy for reelection, both men were in a position to make needs if they did stand. In rapid turn, the two typified the Township political scene of late, no incumbent has sought reelection in the past three years.

The other Township office appears on the off-year ballot, that of tax collector. The incumbent is Republican Walter B. Foster, Jr.

MORE PARKING PLANNED
In Heart of Town. The Borough Planning Board, acting on evidence adduced by the Township, recommended that Mayor and Council take immediate steps to acquire for interior-lot parking the former Titus Motor Company property located on Witherspoon Street and occupying a large segment of the area between Witherspoon and Tulane Streets.

It was in 1959, in the original "Blue" report, that the development of interior-block parking in this area was first urged. In recent weeks, conversion of this property into a restaurant ("The Culver's Chick") and a cluster of off-street shops, has been rejected by the Zoning Board.

FINALISTS
John H. Wallace, Jr., 186 Library Place, forthcoming president of Princeton Hospital, who this week took the unprecedented but wholly justifiable step of notifying the hospital management that they must take immediate steps to upgrade sharply their contributions to the Hospital. In a registered letter (see page 12 for full text) to the hospital's chairman, Hopewell and East Windsor Township were advised that unless the maximum contributions permitted by law are paid within 30 days, needy patients of these municipalities will no longer be accepted here.

Raymond F. Mondone, 274 Hamilton Avenue, who apparently means to stay in the town of Princeton Borough is scheduled for confirmation at Tuesday's Council meeting. New Jersey ranks 16th in money spent for hospitals and health services . . . but has been way down in money spent for public welfare, such as aid to the blind and poor . . . the state ranks 7th, which is next to the last, nothing like Alaska wasn't included.

Based on Bayard Lane lately, a membership planning consultants' leaders' Cauduh Associates report 14,000 cars on Nassau in a 21-hour period . . . that's as many as there are on Route One between Princeton and New York in the same period of time. Route 206 has 5,280 cars in 24 hours (on the part of Route 206 that lies in the Township) . . . and at the end of the interchange at Bayard and Nassau, the zero hour came on Tuesday for two men, 44 and 50 years

TOPICS Of the Town

DROWNING Averted

Quick Action Saves Boy. A race against death at close to a mile and a half down river-cleared Nassau Street ended after police had the highest possible dividend. A 2½-year-old boy's life was saved because police reached him in time after his mother had pulled him from a water-filled swimming pool.

Edward Baruch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fernand Baruch of 40 Deer Path, and pre-school age friends, had been stuck in the pool for a dozen minutes in some manner still unknown to police, they had managed to open the high latch of the gate in a seven-foot fence surrounding the pool. The boy had been partially owned by Dr. Donald Riddle, 63 Deer Path.

Mrs. Baruch learned of the impending danger when her 4-year-old son ran into the house. "Edward is in deep water!"

Mrs. Baruch went into water up to her shoulders to bring her son to safety. Some time later, in response to her telephone call, Frank Maguire of the Borough Police Department was "riding interference" down Nassau Street for the Township, as he knew would follow shortly.

"The sirens sent drivers to the side of the street so that it looked almost deserted," one Township patrolman later reported. Anthony Nini and Michael Lisi of the Township arrived less than a minute after Patrolman Maguire, their rapid journey also aided by the traffic-clearing efforts of special school police along the route. Young Edward was blue in the face and his time oxygen could not be administered. First aid was given and then when he was rushed to Princeton Hospital, but his condition went from "satisfactory" to "good" in a matter of hours and the effects of shock and exposure are now fully overcome.

PERSONNEL WORRIES

One Gone, One to Go. The Borough has suddenly been brought face-to-face with an unexpected, and unprecedented, personnel crisis in its Engineering Department where since 1934, when the post of Borough Engineer was created, J. Edward Riker has reigned supreme and has played more instruments than "The Music Man."

At Tuesday evening's meeting of the Planning Board, 2½ hours after he had discussed "vacation plans" with Mayor and Council at their monthly Agenda Preparation Session, the 66-year-old engineer, who had been on the Planning Board since its founding in 1937, announced: "I'm stepping down April 1, and won't be here for the meeting next month."

The face of a somewhat-expected of the veteran, state-appointed engineer, who first entered the Borough's employ in 1931 as Resident Engineer for the then-needed sewage system, had previously discussed with the three-member Public Works Committee (chaired by Councilman Sonenson) and with Mayor Male.

While Mr. Riker's retirement had been projected for this year, and provision had been made in the 1958 budget to hire him as a Borough consultant upon completion of an earned and prolonged terminal leave, his sudden decision to "step down" exploded in the Council's ears with the roar of a firecracker in an empty tin can.

Four days earlier, Mr. Riker's intended successor, Robert H. Albrecht, a former employee of the town, had reported on New Year's Day, had submitted his resignation to the Mayor. This past Monday morning Mr. Albrecht reported for duty in Hamilton, N.Y. (Albany College University), where he had previously served as city engineer for some 14 years.

Mr. Albrecht, an I.P.T. alumnus with a distinguished engineering background that included some 22 years of public and industrial experience, had been hired as the late Henry Kenar's successor in 1954, after the days of 1958, with Mr. Riker's approval, and on the understanding that he would succeed Mr. Riker some time in 1959. His letter of resignation was not made public.

Riker Resume. The Cornell-trained Borough Engineer, who served for the record in the late summer of 1931 that followed by a year or so away from retirement, has played a conspicuous role in the development of the Township through from the WPA years of 1935 (which endowed the Borough with a million dollar nestegg in the form of

SIX LOSE LICENSES

For Driving Violations, Six drivers in the Princeton area have had their licenses revoked for various periods as a result of action in Princeton Township and by the State Department of Law and Public Safety.

Each defendant paid $5 court costs. Others fined by Magistrate Gerber included Sally Hackenberg, 21, Lawrenceville Road; Samel Dell Burnett, 33, 138 John Street, both $30 for careless driving.

From Trenton this week came announcement of these license revocations:

Hahn, 20, Hamilton Avenue, improper passing and three speeding convictions, indefinite revocation; Ronaline A. Bennett, 20, RD 1, Monmouth Junction, three speeding, careless driving and driving with out license, one year revocation; Norman Hines, 37, 7 Jackson Street, speeding in excess of 60 miles an hour, 30 days.

The first few days of March had seen the month set more like a January than a March and that, the National Weather Service said, would be the case for the next few days, at least.

Possible showers Thursday night and early Friday, clearing thereafter. Generally mild throughout the four-day period.

About that March blizzard, he had no comment, but did mention something about precipitation for 1959 being well below normal to date.

The car struck an embankment on the left side of the road and rolled over, landing on its wheels 75 feet away. Miss Pessel was admitted to Mercer Hospital with a fractured jaw and cuts and bruises on her head, right shoulder and left arm. A student at Miss Fine's School, she is the daughter of Dr. Johannes F. Pessel, medical director of Mercer Hospital. Patrolman Katafias issued a ticket for careless driving.

News Of The THEATRES

"THE LARK" AT F. H. S.

Students to Give Drama. Jean Anouilh's drama, "The Lark," will be given this Friday and Saturday by a group of Princeton High students under the direction of Mrs. Wilma Harris. The play will begin at 8:15 p.m.

Cozy Spitzer will be seen as John the Arc and Timothy Nutley as Becket. The play will be played by William Conger, Robert Blumenfeld, Peter Vajk, William Grof, Carol Bortell, Ray Shand, Stephen Lockwood, John Ladd, John Stengen, Nancy Strayer, Linda Almoran, Catherine Clark, Peter Homes, David White, Alan Gebhardt and William Seayth.

Also Robert Robertson, Mary Stever, John St. John, Paul Mullinix, Tyler Gatchell, Richard Tinsley, Elizabeth Patterson, Diana Terry, Patricia Welch and Eme Harn. Set designs have been executed in the art classes of Arthur Stein. Alfred J. Seitz is in charge of stage construction and lighting.

DRAMA AT THE INTIME

Tragedy Runs the Gamut. All the highly-developed intricacies of Elizabethan drama seem to be present in the 17th Century play, "The Revenger's Tragedy," which the Theatre Intime opens at Murray Theatre this Thursday at 8:30. Headed by the stars are Kathy Kelly and Nan Rickert, both known to Princeton audiences, and graduate students Robert Wright and Joseph Kramer.

The play, seldom to be seen before in this country, follows to some extent a "Hamlet" theme with elements of hate and corruption which tend to make the audience shudder with awe. The ingenious and complicated story follows the plottings of Vendice, the revenger. Former Intime president, David Weller, and his production, Elizabethan sets and costumes are the work of Paul Glicker and Margot Berk. Tickets for the play which runs through March 14 are available at the University Store and at the box office night.

EARLY MUSIC PLAYED

Pro Musica Heard Monday.
"You alone can perform such wonders," reads the text of "Tu Solis" written by a quintette in 1511, and Monday night by members of Pro Musica. The audience of enthusiasts at McCarter Theater may well have felt that the line of text had been written to describe Pro Musica itself because the flawless, polished performance of these musicians is surely unique within the field.

The field, of course, is Medieval and Renaissance music.

Members of Pro Musica are as versatile musically as their Renaissance ancestors, and probably much more proficient.

Charles Bressler, the tenor, plays the portative organ and sings the same composition.
Betty Wilson, one of the two sopranos, plays a tenor recorder, sings a few measures and returns to her recorder. She also plays a pair of soprano little cymbals, one tied to her thumb,
one to her middle finger.

Other singers play drums,
shake tambourines and rattle.
The recorder players, in deference to McCarter's size, used amplifiers on their instruments.

The music for Monday night's concert was selected from early Flemish composers and the Renaissance music of Spain. The range extended from the sophisticated compositions of "Dowmunt" as codicur Regna" to a bright and rhythmic Spanish Villancicos in which a wife tells her husband to give her a hug
and a kiss and she will give him a chocolate kiss.

Visually as well as aurally the concert was fascinating. Watching Paul Ehrlich play his treble cello, an instrument he has had for 20 years but held deftly like a cello, watching Martha Eckerman (an exquisite Renaissance beauty) do the curious backstage bowing required of violinists, guitarists and added height, violinists, gave an added dimension of interest to a concert in which the music itself sustained a high level of interest.

This Renaissance music, so limpid and so finely spun for such a vigorous time, was performed on Monday night by people who looked like them. It was given well. Perhaps the outstanding performer was Russell Oberlin,
the countertenor, who projects his high, uncanny voice with ease, adding clarity. Mr. Fresler, the tenor, and Miss Wilson, the soprano were also outstanding.

In supporting roles, Bernard
Meynard, violinist, and Lester Taylor, harpsichord, were nimble and precise. Soloists and instrumentalist were well-matched and as perfect joined as the duo violin on Mr. Meynard's bite harpsichord.

William Warfield's benefit concert for the Friendship Club was cancelled last Thursday at 11:30; just nine hours before the baritone was scheduled to appear in McCarter Theater.

Through the medium of the campus station, WPRB, two Trenton stations, WTTM and WTOA, and the Princeton patriot, the concert children were notified of the last-minute cancellation and the only people who appeared at McCarter were a few out-of-towners who live outside the network of communications.

Mr. Warfield had been on tour and was ill when he returned to work last Wednesday night. After his manager had cancelled the Princeton concert, the baritone sent the following telegram to The Friendship Club:

"Princeton, my sincere regards to the Friendship Club and Princeton audience for inconvenience. Illness prevented concert tonight, doctor forbids going out. Many thanks for every thought and kind word to you. Will be back to sing for you March 26."

Tickets for last Thursday's concert will be honored on Thursday, March 26. There are still a few tickets available.
They are on sale at The University Store.

Recitals and Concerts were acclaimed by music critics.

For his Princeton concert, Mr.
Spivakovsky will play Mozart's
Adagio in E Major, K. 261 with a Bach's Partita in E Major, Bach's
Partita in D Minor for unaccompanied violin; Bartok's Sonata No. 2 for Violin and Piano, and Brahms' Sonata in D Minor, Opus 108.

concert will be given in Alexan-

at 8:30 p.m.

The Debussy work is "La translation of the Rossini tempi.

It will be sung by the Sarah Lawrence Chorus conducted by Harold A. Franklin. The two

RUGS AND SWATCHES

At New Shop. The Home Furnishing Shop, newly opened at 41 Witherpoon, offers a pleasant, sunny place to browse while you sit in a large easy chair and choose to spring re-decorating. And while the surroundings may be pleasant, the decision will not be easy because the Shop has a very large library of samples to choose from.

The store incidentally, has been completely redecorated, with redwood paneling at the show windows, a new carpet in sculptured striations, and a flat-topped table on which you will find the latest issues of all the decorating magazines. You can sit here all day if you want to.

In the fabric department, you may examine everything from old favorites to prints so new they are still waiting to be named. One new print, for example, is done on coarsely woven natural linen.

It displays a large group of carnations and dogwood arranged in a manner similar to Japanese without being wistful. There is a matching print exactly like it, but executed on chintz. The combination of the two fabrics makes a subtle texture contrast.

Chintz again — this time in an old-fashioned print that belongs in a charming little cottage. Its small bouquets of bluebells have been arranged in a tidy and symmetrical manner on a cream ground.

For a more sophisticated room, choose a cotton print of mushrooms, ferns and grasses as a border for a chintz. Or a striking linent print that arranges oblongs of solid, natural color with oblongs of flowers in a brick pattern. (The flowers are dusty shades of blue, pink and olive.)

Variety in price and style is a feature of Home Furnishings, by the way. Next to the simple cottons, with a flat look at $30 a yard, exquisite cut velvets like the one with tiny gold medallions arranged against a background of gold silk, or the look of aqua velvet against cream. Beautiful for a formal little French chair.

The shop also sells rugs, of course, and in the little alcove where rug samples are displayed, you'll find swatches of imported velvets, cotton twists, sisal and the finest chenille from the looms of James Templeton in Scotland.

Owners of The Home Furnishing Shop are Bernard Cooke, well-known for his upholstery work, and Sam Bahadurian who is a rug expert. Their matched talents go together like silk and velvet.

Hitching Post. Over on Palmer Square West is another new shop. This one has just started especially for husky boys. These little fellows who are just as tall as anybody else size 12, but who are much too big around to wear standard size 12 shoes.

There are certain indecent persons, peers of these guys, largely, who refer to them as "fat." At the new shop, which is called the Hitching Post, they are "huskies." Nobody ever, ever, ever will use the word "fat" in this shop.

The Hitching Post is located at 63 Palmer Square West. It is operated by The Junior and Prep Shops down the street, and this means that you will find at the new place the same quality

-A Time For Caution

The trade mark of the new Hitching Post shop for huskies on Palmer Square is, understandably enough, a hitching-post boy.

He is a copy of an old post, and he stands about four feet tall. He has been sturdy made out of cast iron, and he must weight well, he'd qualify as a husky by anybody's table of weights and measures.

It was suggested to Walter Serris, who owns the shop and the hitching-post boy, that his trade mark should really be on the sidewalk, not inside on top of a cabinet.

"Outside," Serris explained, "is where I sell. I sell the best horseshoes a kid could find to put in his room. If I put it outside, I'd be gone before I got back in the shop."

and styling you find at the parent shop. Sizes range 8-20.

There are various colored suits, slacks of denim and wool or various other fabric combinations and some excellent new sports jackets in a hopsacking composed of cotton, denim and cashmere. All these clothes are cut with the husky in mind.

The length, inseam, is the length a boy needs. But the pants are made so they have been greatly expanded to take care of the husky's girth. In the past,

Susan Hayward, who appears to be the first choice of producers when there is in the offing, has the show to herself in the role of Miss Gwendolyn. She can't help but show off her skill and power. It is an actress' dream role and she explores it to the point where an looker can almost see an Oscar growing on her carelessly held coat sleeve.

The film's musical score, by John Mendel, is a cinemilestone in its own right. Performed by a group of outstanding West Coast musicians, it is easily rated by jazzophonist Gerry Mulligan. It marks the first time that jazz exclusively has been used as a dramatic backdrop to a film by a major composer. The musical suitability for this purpose has, of course, already been demonstrated by the television show, "Peter Gunn," but its impact in "Want Want" is far more powerful. For obvious reasons, this film is not recommended for the "Howdy Doody" set, but serious movie-goers, should find it of interest.

Anna Lucas (March 8-10) hews closely to Philip Yordan's uneven stage play of the same name. The story concerns the flight of a young Negro Ann, Anna, who is driven into prostitution in an effort to escape from her violent, unreasoning father.

Adding to her already crushing marital burden is the appearance of two other halves, two loves: a brash young sailor whom she has met in a professional capacity, and an intelligent, horn-rimmed college young man who checks, from the primrose from her petticoat path. This situation is not helped by the presence of a money-grasping brother-in-law with his own set of Anna's Anna should seek her attempts to please everybody, combined with her intermittent and eventually successful attempts to better her position in the world, which make for a confusing story. There are, nevertheless, elements of human drama here that give the film some credibility.

The film is generally effective. Eartha Kitt handles the role of Anna with verve and skill, and Sammy Davis Jr. is appropriately lumen-brained and casual. The United Artists film was produced by Sidney Harmon and directed by Arnold Laven.

The Perfect Furlough (March 11-14) spends 93 minutes developing its basic, if dubious, premise. Tony Curtis, in his usually funny theatrical property since the departure to honest labor of Mack Sennett's hulking lawmen, flings himself into the role of a bumbling, dim-witted shorty parts may be inclined to go along with this, but more impartial observers may feel that everyone concerned with "The Perfect Furlough" has worked just a trifle too hard. Curtis does display a modicum of skill in running through his phenotypic part, but the hilarity he creates is unlikely to be matched. The film's concentration on the film's scenic attractions, chief among which are Janet Leigh, Linda Cristal and Ernest Borgnine.

Curtis' Army corporal with a history of affairs with women, is stationed at an isolated Arctic base with 108 fellow GIs. Since it is impossible for many of the women to be there, Curtis is elected to represent the crowd on a perfect furlough. In Paris. The improbable idea is that his kind and telling will provide a vacation for the entire company platoon. In any event, Tony arrives in the French capital, living and, this is where the express-espald, CinemaScope, Eastman color, and the rest come in. There are 287 certified laughs in this picture, according to audience tests conducted by a Pennsylvania research firm. They fail to specify whether they included the newsreel in their account.

THE GARDEN
Father Panchall (March 5-7) should remove the doubts of those who fear that the Garden might turn into a musical "Brilliant" Barot oddities. The winner of many international grand prizes, including the Grand Prix at the Cannes Film Festival, this is one of the rare pictures to reach these a group of three catches by Henry Purcell and a drinking song by the same composer. The tenor solo and drinking song will be sung by Lester H. Freed, $2. shores from India. The story is a poignant slice of the life of a Brahmin working family: the mother, resigned to the harsh realities of her unlovely world, sees the possibility of possible better days ahead; an aunt, who calmly awaits death; and two youngsters.

The native east performs with subtlety and feeling and Director Subrahmanyam, who also directed the screenplay, evokes an atmosphere so genuine that the viewer can scarcely doubt that this is really the way of life in India. Subrahmanyam, a brilliant, tactful mind, that talent, not expensive equipment, is still the key quality of fine entertainment.

Ravi Shankar's musical score is appropriate and moving. This is one to see.

My Uncle (March 9-14) stars Jacques Tati in a winning romp that has already been voted "Best Foreign Picture of the Year" by the New York film critics. Tati, who is fondly remembered for his delightful portrayal of Mr. Hulot in "The Hulot's Holiday" and a practitioner of the visual forms developed by Charlie Chaplin — satirical slapstick. The plot, which serves primarily as a loose framework for Tati's clowning, relates to an ordinary life controlled by mechanical gadgets and social formalities.

The language barrier, though never a real obstacle for comedians, Tati's stamp is, nonetheless, in a class by itself. The audience has chosen to exhibit the dubbed English version of this picture, which was originally released in "Technicolor." Technical problems necessitated an edit, though the management is apparently aware that many filmgoers prefer to hear the original dialogue and may not understand French. The film, however, it seems, has installed a wide, CinemaScope screen and "My Uncle" was filmed on old-fashioned square celluloid. In the subtitled version, were shown, it would be necessary to clip off the top of the characters' heads in many scenes. With the dubbed version, it is possible to cut off the bottom. This would be better, the management feels, since most viewers find faces more expressive than feet. But in any event, "My Uncle" is a riot and the Eastman color is attractive. The film is worthwhile and enjoyable.

CINEMA, LE 5 MARS

"Kermesse Heroique," a French film co-produced by a local mésse Heroique," will be shown this Thursday at 9 p.m. in 10 McCosh under the auspices of the French Club of Princeton. The picture is in silent film.

Winner of many prizes, including the Grand Prix du Cinema Francais, the gold medal of the City of Paris, and the "New York Film Critics" Award as the Best Foreign Film of the Year, the French film has been called "one of the most important classics of the motion picture." Georges Feyder is the director film and Louis Jouvet and Francoise Rosay are the stars.

many out-size boys have had to wear men's slacks which have been cut off at the leg. This means a perfectly dreadful fit, but one's ego probably adds to the self-consciousness of a boy who has too much to be self-conscious about already.

Clothes at The Hitching Post are conservative without bankruptcy. Sports jackets are charcoal green, charcoal grey, charcoal wine. Slacks are the usual greys, browns and chinios.
You can't go wrong with them, too, because the shop also stocks large sizes in underwear.

The new husky shop has been treated to lots of pine furniture and cabinets with a background of blue-green paint. There's a dandy wallpaper mural of New York's Bowling Green in the 1840's and it provides the backdrop for a cast iron hitching post boy, bright in a uniform of red and white.

Customers of the Junior Shop will be glad to learn that Dave Thornton, formerly with the Juniors, will be at The Hitching
Post.

Of Cabbages... Needlepoint,
usually a decorative kind of embroidery in which you fill in boundaries, is now a decorative kind of embroidery in which you fill in cabbages.

At The Knitting Shop on Tu-lance Street, there is a collection of six crosspoint patterns which feature vegetable motifs. Flowers are: You may wear your way around corn, corn ears, eggplant, squash and grapes. Or asparagus, red peppers, pea pods and mushrooms. Or cabbage, radishes, blackberries and pes pods. Or carrots, cauliflower, tomatoes and plums.

All this is not nearly so alarming as it sounds. The colors are bright, but not obtrusive and the patterns would really be delightful in a summer room.

We also liked some needlepoint samplers that say "A New Broom Sweeps Clean" and "Sin Not!"

Mothers and daughters may do a sister act in a new white "Salzburg" sweater. This bulky cardigan, with silver buttons, has everything in red, white, yellow and green. You knit from a kit, in any girl's or woman's size.

Brothers and sisters wear a cardigan that matches too. They have a white mohair body and sister's has square wooden beads sewn on in a diamond pattern all over the sweater.

For dress, make yourself a balky white cardigan and applique on it a big spray of roses in black velvet and net. (Blue, pink, navy or tawny velvet if you prefer.)

You choose the kit and may knit a sweater from Italian mohair
in shades like avocado, peach, gold, royal or rust. Italian mohair is lusher than French mohair and comes in a wider range of colors.

Silk crepe yarn comes in eight tweedy colors. Swiss straw yarn comes in a soft, basallic tweed that only exhibits a flock every two or three inches. This is called Knicker yarn and there are 11 colors to choose from.

Cast iron. Bright, bold yarn, not basallic and it comes in worsted weights for bulkies. It's Glengarry, in brown, tan, two nay and green.

For summer, make yourself
something in Swiss straw yarn.
It's not stiff and prickly at all,
but very supple, and it has flecks
of tweed in pastel shades.

Yarns not size look like beginner's tatting. It is 90 per cent voluminous acetate, whatever that is, and 10 per cent nylon and it consists of a strand of yarn that has little loops every now and then, apparently at random.

57 MILLION EXPANSION

In South Brunswick, Kendall Builders Inc. will start construction this year on a $57-million building program in South Brunswick Town Center. The program includes homes, schools, utilities and a shopping center.

It will be the most ambitious building program ever undertaken by the firm, which has erected more than 3,000 homes in the past six years in Mercer, Middlesex and Monmouth counties. The firm's president, Herbert Kendall of Princeton, said 350 homes, priced from $15,490 to $17,990, will be erected this year at the New Kendall Park community in Franklin Lakes.

The total volume of this construction will be $5.9 million, he said. An additional $500,000 will be spent for the construction of an 18,000-square-foot shopping center, 20-acre shopping center, which will include 22 stores, a 32-lane bowling alley and a 550-car

Wins Talent Prize

Peter Valk, 16, son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Valk of Wall Street, Princeton Junction, has won the fifth place $3,000 scholarship in the 18th annual National Westinghouse Science Talent Search. His entry was based on a research paper in which he amassed evidence to show that radioactive fallout could speed up the evolution of plants in man's environment. Approximately 28,000 young men and women from all over the United States competed in the contest.

Peter was born in Hungary and came to this country in 1946. He is a senior at Princeton High School where he serves as chairman of a physics and mathematics club which he helped to organize. He is also a member of the school orchestra and news editor of The Tower, school newspaper. He hopes to enter the California Institute of Technology in the fall.

HOMEMAKERS ON CALL

Training Compiled by Six. The Princeton Homemaker Service, inspired last fall by a Kiwanis Club contest, now has six homemakers (including three Princeton women) ready to work in homes temporarily disrupted by illness. The week-long training program, conducted under the supervision of the Rutgers University extension division, and included courses in working with people, accident prevention, personal care, child care, the elderly, the relationship of homemaker and the sick patient, and agency procedures.

All the homemakers are mature women, trained and experienced in taking care of the home. The service would like to train six more and asks that those interested contact the Princeton Community Homemaker Service Inc., P.O. Box 201.

Mrs. Harold Sonnenberg, of Cranbury, the service's executive director, is available by telephone Monday through Friday from 1 to 5 at WA 4-5815 to handle requests. She emphasizes that the homemakers are not medical or dental assistants of the family doctor, and are on call Monday through Friday. They are available four to eight hours a day at $1.25 an hour (a cost is borne by the family).

About half the $4000 sought to finance the administrative costs of the service in 1958 has been raised. Contributions should be made payable to the Princeton Community Homemaker Service and sent to P.O. Box 201.

BOARD MEMBERS NAMED
By Chapin School. Harold B. Erdman of 539 Princeton-Kingston Road, and Lawrence E. Benson of Princeton-Lake Road, Skillman, were elected. Mrs. Benson is a board member of the Chapin School. Mrs. Hyman L. Battle Jr., and Dr. Robert S. Garber were re-elected to three-year terms.

Scholarships to be given for the year are Amos Eno, re-elected chairman of the board; Dr. L. Ashby Adams, named vice-chairman; Mrs. Bader, re-elected secretary; and Mrs. L. Smith, re-elected treasurer. Other members of the board include: Mrs. Richard S. Conger, Mrs. Ralph Rottem, H. Stewart Peyton, G. Victor Davis and Bryce Herford.

FIELD TRIP SATURDAY

For Naturalist Club. The Trenton Naturalist Club will sponsor a Delaware Valley field trip on Saturday.

LIONS AUXILIARY TO MEET

Dr. Bennett Will Speak. The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Princeton Lions Club will meet for dinner Monday at 7 at Lahier's Restaurant.

Dr. Robert E. Bennett will be the guest speaker. He is medical director of the New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute.

CANCER GROUP FORMED

To Make Dressings. A group of women is meeting Tuesdays from 10 to 12 in the Community Building to make cancer dressings. Still needed are more who can do plain sewing.

Clean, ironed sheets for dressings may be left at the United Fund office in the Community Building. Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Walker, WA 1-8230.

The following letter has been sent to the Honorable Milton Cunningham, Mayor of Hightstown; the Honorable E. H. Adler, Mayor of Hopewell; and the Honorable Tunis Conover, Mayor of East Windsor Township.

This letter is being published for the information of the citizens of these municipalities.

PRINCETON HOSPITAL

PRINCETON, NEW JERSEY

March 2, 1959

My dear Mayor:

For a number of years, representatives of the Princeton Hospital have, on behalf of this institution or the Hospital Council of Mercer County, requested adequate support from your municipality for the care of your medically and socially indigent.

We understand that you have again provided in your budget only a token appropriation toward the care of such patients. We are also informed that the Chosen Board of Freeholders of the County of Mercer has refused any increase in the County appropriation for the hospital on the basis that the individual municipalities have an equally substantial part of their responsibility. This is true of every municipality in the County, with the exception of Princeton Borough, Princeton Township and West Windsor Township.

Princeton Hospital is thus faced with another year of inadequate resources to meet the needs of your needy patients. We are not in a financial position to meet these costs and we are not going to ask the residents of Princeton to continue to subsidize your municipality. We therefore regret that, unless you and your Council are fit to take emergency steps to provide the maximum amount of financial support permitted under the law, within 90 days from the date of this letter, we will be unable to render inpatient or outpatient service to the medically and socially indigent residents of your municipality.

The contents of this letter are being published in the local newspapers for the full information of the residents of your municipality.

Representatives of this institution stand ready to meet with you on this subject at any time.

Sincerely yours,
/s/ JOHN H. WALLACE, JR.

Question of the Week

QUESTION: Do you agree with the Borough Council's decision to install parking meters in the station area? Do you feel the meters will clear up the traffic problem in this area?

Location: Princeton Station and around town.

Alfred B. Shuster, 315 Ewing Street, sales executive. No. We live in the station area and I don't think there is a parking problem at the station. If the meters are installed, I'll probably have my wife drive me to the station.

David Parmer, 256 Russell Road, manager. I do not agree with the Council's proposal. The alleged chaos exists in an area separate and distinct from the McCarter curbside. The yellow lines last several weeks ago, to delineate safe parking boundaries should clear up the problem — if enforced. The 20-minute limit directly in front of the station should be enforced. The installation of meters as proposed would not solve the problem where it exists. It would, however, be profitable.

George F. Brown, 287 Edgerstone Road, sales executive. I think it's reasonable thing. It's not reasonable to provide for commuters' cars, though I think it's reasonable to charge for them. But I think just as many people will travel by car, I don't think it will do much for the traffic situation.

Wite Bussey, 351 Henry Court, editor. I think it's inevitable that they would decide to take advantage of the parking for income. Whether it will clear up the problem, I don't know. I hope so, but I think there will still be a problem on the other side of the street.

Karl D. Petit Jr., 104 Bayard Lane, investment broker. I wouldn't know if it will solve the parking problem, but it's an extreme hardship on the commuters. I don't go for it. With the railroad fares up, commuters to New York or Philadelphia already spend $30 a month for commuting. Add in another a day for parking and it gets up pretty high.

James A. Perkins, 256 Edgerstone Road, Carnegie Foundation executive. I don't have a very sound basis for judgment since I work in the city, but it sounds to me like an inevitable thing since they have started charging at the Junction. It seems like the only way to clear up the jam down there. Will it be successful? Darned if I know.

Thoughts On Meters

Commuters who have been parking their cars at the Pennsylvania Railroad Station since the installation of parking meters at the Princeton Junction and at the Trinity Church parking lot. Commuters and other interested residents will have an opportunity to express their thoughts on the proposed ordinance at Tuesday's Council meeting. No one questioned by Town Topics this week indicated strong support for the measure but a number of residents feel the decision "inevitable." (For an additional view, see Mailbox on page 15.)

Dessa M. Skinner Jr., 104 Library Place, banker. Since they put the meters out at the Junction, a lot of people have been parking at Princeton station. Now I guess they'll go back to the Junction and that should help the problem. I haven't had an opportunity to read the Council's decision yet, so I'd hesitate to say whether it's good or bad.

Meter Installation Attacked

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:
The proposed installation of parking meters on the west side of University Place between College Road and Alexander Street should be recognized for what it is: a discriminatory tax to be levied upon the lower classes who park their automobiles near the station while using the train.

Were the parking meters to be used to induce needed turnover, used in a new parking yard or a definite outlet of an establishment, and maintenance, they could be justified. Since neither of these purposes can be responsible, no new installation is to be imposed nor is a new accommodation to be offered in the immediate area in which the meters are to be placed—its purpose can be only to tap a dependable source of revenue. This is improper, if not illegal.

If the Council wishes to remedy the chaotic situation in that area a sufficient number of meters and the Dohm & Kerr garage, the only solution is the inauguration and enforcement of no-parking regulations in that area. The area along the curb on University Place there should be the street corner to be said to be an integral part of any such plan, since with meters the automobiles would be parked there in the same manner and for the same length of time as at present.

It certainly would be out of character for the Council to impose such a discriminatory tax. Fortunately, the March 10 hearing offers everyone the opportunity to express their opposition to this most obnoxious form of taxation.

SPORTS In Princeton

SEASON NEARS END

Winter Sports at Climax. Although March may bring the record-breaking blizzard that delayed thoughts of spring a staggering blow, the calendar says that the winter sports season is virtually over. A swim meet was held Saturday at 2 p.m. on the schedule, and the final swimming meet of the year will be staged with Army in Dilworth Saturday at 3 p.m.

Intercollegiate tournaments in squash, fencing, wrestling and swimming remain to be held, with the first meet set for Dartmouth this Friday and Saturday. Princeton sophomore Steve Vehsle is among those given a good chance of winning the title.

Basketball Game Tight. When Princeton and Dartmouth went into their final game this week, they were in first place with identical 12-1 records. It marked the first time in 57 years of Ivy action that the team had to be content with the win with such high winning percentages. In other seasons, marks of 11-3, and even 10-4 have been good enough to win the title. The Green's winning percentage of .667 is the best dimensional percentage on record — the .667 with which Dartmouth won in 1938, when an 8-4 season was good enough to take the pennies without resort to a play-off.

Having upended the defending champion Indians, 83 to 67, on Friday and following up with a 75-66 victory over Harvard while Dartmouth was turning back Penn at Philadelphia, Princeton was looking forward this week to a third meeting with the Green. Bring it on, Princeton! The Tigers had to play in Penn in the Palestra Wednesday night while Dartmouth was playing host to Brown at Hanover.

If the Orange and Black can duplicate the brand of basketball it played in hanging on 16-point deficit in the final game last week, it will top the highly-credible Indians for a second time this season. Such an achievement would give Captain Capponi forces the third win in a row, a second more than any other Ivy entry has been able to achieve.

From a 17-10 deficit early in the first half, Princeton, in the second time, the Tigers moved out to take complete charge of the vital contest. The visitors were still even at 41-41 when Princeton's own Jim Branigan at 56 jumped to an insurmountable 57-59 when Joe Burns caged a pair of fouls at the 15-minute mark.

This seven-minute stretch saw Jim Branigan hit for 10 of the 20 points made by the Tigers, and his seven for shooting, averaging a major factor in Princeton's great 35-point contribution to the victory in the final half. Branigan's dead-eye-dick performance forced Dartmouth to switch from a zone defense to a man-to-man, a adept Princetonians steadily widened the gap as the clock ran out.

Can Belz stayed with Rudy Luton on the boards, but the big Indian's 28, but was even more valuable in reversing the trend on rebounds one at the foul line. Dartmouth, with 100 points, departed coast to defeat at Hanover; last week, Belz sank 10 foul in the first half alone, the team made 25 of 31 and led the losers in rebounds, 46 to 37.

In both games last weekend, Princeton's ability to beat an all-court press was the key to victory. Whether possession was essential did much to bring victory. Neither the agile Chuck Kaufman of Dartmouth nor Harvard's veteran George Harrington could handle Art Kline's

Playoff in New Haven

If a playoff is needed to determine the winner of the Ivy basketball championship this year, it will be at Yale's Payne Whitney Gymnasium.

The Ivy Victor automatically qualifies for the district NCAA tournament, to be played next Saturday at New Haven's Madison Square Garden. Princeton and Dartmouth began the week in a first-place tie and each had a game Wednesday. (See story, this page.)

This would be the 10th play-off in Ivy history and the sixth in which Princeton has participated. The Tigers have been successful in such occasions, the last time in 1955 when they topped Columbia at New Brunswick.

drilling, and when the defense moved out to break the freeze, accurate passing brought easy lay-ups by Carl Belz or Joe Luton.

The victory over Dartmouth snapped a 15-game winning streak compiled by the Indians and also ended a string of 13 consecutive Ivy victories. Princeton had won the Hanover quintet over two seasons. Princeton's triumph at Hanover in 1958 had been its last previous loss. The last man, the Tiger, left the Palestra, many games at Philadelphia also assure Capponi of achieving the best won-loss percentage during his two decades here, regardless of the decisions this week.

Scare from Harvard. A Harvard quintet that felt no pressure and had no need of sorts of trouble for Princeton was sent on its way. The Tigers' way to Hanover held a 60-60 tie Saturday with six minutes left. In the first half, the Crimson moved up to a point deficit of 28-29, later before the Orange and Black threw in nine in a row to cut the half-time deficit to 42-41.

What was this Princeton ability to rally twice during the evening that made the difference. Harvard stayed with the Tigers until 15:29, when it was 64-62. Princeton, however, had the last word, tossing in nine straight to wrap up the verdict. Once again, Klein's picturesque dribbling, improved by a driving lay-up and converted by a driving lay-up and free throws, was the decisive factor in ability to control the action.

IVY CHAMPIONS COMING

Dartmouth Has Won Title. In some ways more impressive than than was considered possible before the season began, Dartmouth's well-balanced hockey team wrapped up the Ivy championship Saturday. The Green, who ended the season with 11 wins, 10 losses and 1 tie, was aided materially by Princeton's victory over Harvard and with Harvard and finished masters Saturday. —Continued on Page 19 with a 6-2 triumph over Brown at Haverford.

The Tigers are at what amounts to full strength for them Saturday (Pete Cook back as firstline center and Bruce Van Gerbig, the captain, again) and have a chance of upsetting the league-leaders. A sizeable Junior Penn crowd will be on hand to lend support.

Last Saturday saw a 3-2 victory for Yale at New Haven and a 3-0 whitewash of Cornell here. The outcome left the team in first place, with a 10-1 record going into Saturday's Wednesday's game at Cambridge or the finale against Dartmouth to lift itself over fourth-place Brown.

The contest at New Haven was productive of 21 penalties, 13 of them (including a pair of misconducts against Princeton). The Tigers tried to tie in the 11th minute of an disputed goal which the officials ruled out on the theory that Johnny McBride had batted it in with his glove causing a sizable pause just before the game ended. Lance Odden, Princeton resident, had 16 stitches taken to close a cut on his face after he had come in contact with a ball.

McBride, Pete Cook and Captain Mo Cheston did the scoring against Cornell, with reserve goalie Art Klein getting credit for the shutout. It was a desultory hockey from start to finish, but a moral victory for the losers. In eight Ivy games this season, they had 90 goals while scoring only nine.

THIS QUINTET SPLITS

As 4-15 Season Ends, Basketball became a matter of the past this year for Princeton High School and few regrets were voiced over the fact that the end of the schedule was at hand. Beset by numerous problems from start to finish, the Indians managed to win only four of their 19 games and in losing their finale to Trenton High Monday were defeated by a minimum scoring output that had not been matched in some years.

THS racked up 80 points in rolling to its 18th and final victory of the 1958-59 season. In contrast, Princeton High could account for only 24 and in the eight long minutes of the third quarter, scored only three.

The opening moments on the Trenton court were the best as the Blue and White moved out to a start of 6-5 in the first quarter. But it was 16-8 after one round, 32-14 by intermission-time and when the Tornado quintet poured in 27 points to the losers' three during the final period, the contest bogged down into a real rout.

The news was better from Hightstown last weekend, as PHS jumped into the lead in the league never having trouble. The 50-42 triumph avenged an unexpected defeat by the neighboring Mercer County quint, but Denville's Jim O'Neil won the Little Tigers' standout as he dominated the rebounding with 17 and collected 16 points. Jack Hawkins, up from the jags, celebrated his promotion with 13 points.

The PHS reserves topped their Hightstown counter-parts, 61-45. Jack Lackey set the pace with a fine total of 21.

JOE BURNS
Tiger Basketball Player

After virtually every one of the 23 basketball games Princeton played this season, the spotlight was on either Carl Belz or Jim Brangan. One or the other was almost inevitably the highest scorer and each steadily averaged around 18 or 19 points to dominate the cumulative statistics.

There is no doubt, however, that the Tigers would have been well short of the first place tie with Dartmouth in which they began the week had not been for the less spectacular play of Joe Burns. Times were hard, and the fed bread turned in good rebounding performances—often when Belz required vital support in this key role.

This was particularly true in both Harvard games, contests which Princeton had to battle the effects of proximity to the home-and-home series with Dartmouth. Burns' ability to grab more than his share of rebounds in these games with the Crimson was a major factor in avoiding a stunning upset.

Last Friday, Dartmouth came in to the Gym on the wings of a 15-point winning streak and bolstered by the knowledge that it had hung a 12-point defeat on Princeton in the teams' first meeting a week earlier. Ability to grab the jump on the Orange and Black would leave the home team with a major mental obstacle to overcome.

Before a packed gymnasium, Burns got the Tigers their first seven points: he overhanded a jump shot, and then another free throw. When the Indians staged a typical surge and racked up 17 points in the first seven minutes, Princeton trailed by seven but was still within hailing distance because Burns was not the momentary informant on the opening whistle.

The big Princetonian played far above his season's average in both crucial contests, accounting for 18 points against Dartmouth and 18 against Harvard. In contrast to a season-long average prior to these games of 11.2, his rebounding, despite the fact that both Harvard and Dartmouth had two taller players, was at a similar peak.

As basketball replaces the indoor season, Belz will be back for his third season as a starting pitcher on the Tiger baseball nine. With red-headed Herri Belz, he'll form a nice two combination that should make Princeton a firm contender for the Ivy title in this sport, too.

The Blue and White went into the past week, travelling to Philadelphia for a mid-week contest against the Wissahickon Jungs. The Blue and White went into the game with a 6-1 record.
